SUICIDE IN PRISON.

Pasquale Lorio Dived from the Third Tier to the Ground.

His Skull Was Horribly Crushed and His Neck Broken.

Awaiting Trial in Raymond Street Jail for Assault.

Pasquale Lorio, an Italian, sixty-nine years old, of 20 East Forty-second street, New York, who was a prisoner in Raymond Street Jail, Brooklyn, charged with assaulting a fifteen-year-old girl, committed suicide at 6 o'clock this morning by jumping from the third tier to the ground. He struck the ground on his head, crushing his skull and breaking his neck. He died in less than ten minutes.

It was the second attempt he had made to end his life within a week. A few days ago, a policeman was taking him from the Yorkville Court, by force, and tried to throw him from the fifth-ninth street station of the Third Avenue "L" road. He was caught just as he reached the edge of the platform.

Lorio occupied cell J-15, on the third tier. He remained in his cell most of the time. Yesterday he was very depressed, and spent the day mulling to himself, and destroying an old straw hat. When the night keepers passed his cell they found him sleeping soundly.

At 5 o'clock keepers Kelly, Glavin and Joseph Kelly unlocked the cells to allow the prisoners to go downstairs to wash. No sooner had the doors swung open than Lorio dashed out, ran around the tier until he reached a point near the front of the jail, making almost a complete circle, jumping up on the railing, which is about four feet high, he balanced himself for a moment, and then dived head first into the water.

A doctor was hastily summoned, and he reached the jail at 6:30 o'clock, just as the old man breathed his last. His body was taken to the morgue.

Lorio was married, and it is said, had several children. On the night of March 1, in company with two other Italians, he called at the home of Philomena Parra, aged fifteen, of 124 Hopkinson avenue. The girl's parents had gone out, leaving her alone.

After the party had sent out for beer, the girl threatened to tell her parents when they returned and ordered the men out of the house. Lorio flew into a rage, and grabbing her around the waist, threw her to the floor. She was rendered helpless, while one of the other brutes assaulted her. Then the man's wife came and threatened to tell her parents when they returned. The girl screamed for help, and the men took flight, leaving her alone.

The girl was semi-conscious when her parents returned. They notified the police, and their following day the girl swore out a warrant for Lorio's arrest. The police hunted for him, but he had vanished.

BOY'S MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.

Tell Four Stories and Landed Safely in a Horse-Trough.

Frank Rossi, six years old, who lives with his parents at 151 Graham avenue, Williamsburg, had a very narrow escape from death early this morning.

He was leaning out of a fourth-story window when he slipped and fell out. He alighted on an awning in front of a dry-goods store on the ground floor, and bounced off into a horse trough at the edge of the sidewalk. Although very badly frightened and very wet, he was unhurt.

Self Torture! That's what it amounts to, when you attempt to do washing and cleaning now-a-days, wit' out Pearline. And the strange part of it is, that you should be willing to suffer, when it's only for your loss—not gain. That heedless back-breaking rub, rub, rub isn't saving you anything. It's costing you money. It's simply wearing out the things that you're washing. Why would you rather do it? That is what the women who are saving their strength and their clothes with Pearline can't understand.

SAYS SHE WAS NOT POISONED.

Dr. Forbes Claims Mrs. Kinsella Died from Bright's Disease.

The Accused Burglars, Madden and Folmer, Will Likely Go Free Now.

LONG ISLAND CITY, L. I., July 20.

By issuing a certificate stating that Mrs. Jennie Kinsella's death was due to Bright's disease, Dr. George Forbes, of 323 Vernon avenue, this morning put an end to the talk that the woman had been put out of the way to prevent her testifying against the burglars, still out of prison, who terrified residents of Long Island, Lenox, Massachusetts, and pointed a gun at her.

Mrs. Kinsella died yesterday afternoon at her home, 323 Vernon avenue. She was the wife of "Tom" Kinsella, who is now serving a fifteen-year term in the Westchester prison, at Hartford. He was the father of the same of three and was caught while robbing a house at Bridgeport. In the same raid his companion, Edward Fitzpatrick, at one time a constable of Long Island City, was shot and died.

Mrs. Kinsella came prominently before the public not long ago when she accused George Folmer, her brother-in-law, and Christopher Madden with having been connected with her husband's case of robbery and of assisting in the burglary of the houses of Christopher Madden and others well known on Long Island. These men are now in the Queens County Jail in default of $3,000 bail each, awaiting the action of the grand jury.

The police believe that they cannot now be indicted. Mrs. Kinsella's evidence not having been transcribed and sworn to, and for this reason it was thought that the woman might have been put out of the way by friends of Madden and Folmer.

Ever Mrs. Kinsella herself had twice for her life, and at her request a police guard was stationed to her that night and day. At first the guard consisted of four policemen, but recently only one was kept on duty. Officer Cameron was present at the time of the woman's death.

Another man who will profit by Mrs. Kinsella's death is Alfred Sheppard, accused of assisting in the robbery of a house at Lenox, whose trial is not down for today at Mitchell, Mass. Mrs. Kinsella had been summoned to appear as a witness. It is claimed that there is still strong evidence against him.

Dr. Forbes stated today that while Mrs. Kinsella's death was due to Bright's disease, it had been hastened by the use of liquor. Neighbors state that a crowd of drinkers were in the flat nightly, and the police are censured for not having kept the place orderly, and especially for not having sent Mrs. Kinsella to the hospital six weeks ago, when she first became dangerously ill. It had been decided to leave her in the hospital until yesterday morning, and then when the ambulance surgeon arrived he decided that it would be unwise to remove her.

Coroner Strong has decided that no investigation into Mrs. Kinsella's death is necessary.

The Emma T. Crowell Still Harboring

LONG ISLAND CITY, L. I., July 20. The Emma T. Crowell, who was the wife of James T. Crowell, still remains in the house at 151 Graham avenue, Williamsburg, where she is said to be harboring the burglars, Madden and Folmer, who are still out of prison.

It was stated today that the woman was seen yesterday morning when the Crowells took her to the work shed at a north-eastern station, and to be seen about six miles south of Fire Island.

CONEY'S ILL-SCENTED CREEK.

Dr. Purdy Denies that Any Dead Animals Can Be Found There.

This in Spite of Positive Statements of Eye-Witnesses.

A reader of "The Evening World," who has been greatly interested in "The Evening World's" exposure of the filthy condition of the shores of Coney Island creek, writes a letter, in which he corroborates the statement that dead animals are to be found there, unless the investigator starts out with the intention of reporting the creek pure and clean.

Dr. Charles Purdy, of the Brooklyn Board of Health, denies that any dead animals are to be found there, but the writer, who is connected with a reputable mercantile house, found the body of a dog, the stench from which, compared with Harlem Island, would make the latter smell like sweet perfume. The letter reads as follows:

To the Editor: I was an interested reader of the article in last night's "Evening World," and being a subscriber to the "Evening World," I would like to state my own opinion. I was one of a party of four which left Mr. Lorio's on Sunday afternoon to go to Coney Island. We drifted down the creek with the tide, never dreaming of what was coming. The first thing we saw was the dead body of a dog, which was as white as a sheet, and the next was the stench from which, compared with Harlem Island, would make the latter smell like sweet perfume.

The stench was something frightful, and I was almost sick. I was one of a party of four which left Mr. Lorio's on Sunday afternoon to go to Coney Island. We drifted down the creek with the tide, never dreaming of what was coming. The first thing we saw was the dead body of a dog, which was as white as a sheet, and the next was the stench from which, compared with Harlem Island, would make the latter smell like sweet perfume.

As for factors, you could see nothing but a mass of garbage and refuse, and I was almost sick. I was one of a party of four which left Mr. Lorio's on Sunday afternoon to go to Coney Island. We drifted down the creek with the tide, never dreaming of what was coming. The first thing we saw was the dead body of a dog, which was as white as a sheet, and the next was the stench from which, compared with Harlem Island, would make the latter smell like sweet perfume.

Yet Dr. Purdy denies that there are any dead animals in Coney Island Creek. Evidently there is a mistake somewhere.

Yours truly, W. G. C.

ON A TERRIBLE CHARGE.

Crocery Dealer Metz Arrested on Complaint of His Children.

Theodore Metz, who has a grocery store at 1781 Broadway, Williamsburg, was held in the Ewen Street Court today on a charge of criminal assault.

So strong was the feeling against the man that three policemen constantly watched over him, as it was expected that some of the people in the court might attack him.

Metz was arrested last night on a warrant by Detective Sergeant James Carroll, of the Humboldt street station. When the people in the house heard the charges against him they talked loudly about lynching, but Carroll hustled his prisoner on a street car and got away safely with him.

The charges against the man are made by his three little daughters, who are respectively three, five and ten years of age. The eldest girl told her uncle, John Trimmer, of First avenue, New York, about her father's actions some days ago, and it was on Trimmer's complaint that the charges were laid.

The "Children's Society" has taken charge of the case, and its officers are doing their utmost to have the man punished.

Metz has always been a good reputation, and his friends are confident that he is not guilty. The man himself emphatically denies the charge.

SWITCH FILLED WITH PINS.

Sophiel Phillips Says He Was Beaten with It.

ROCKAWAY BEACH, July 20.—Sophiel Phillips, aged ten, was given into the custody of Hotel-keeper Gladstone at Seaside last evening to be taken care of until the justice could notify the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

Sophiel is the boy who has been sought for by his stepmother for more than a week. He says his stepmother abused him and that if he in any way displeased her parents he was beaten with a switch filled with pins.

He asked to be allowed to live with his sister, but the justice thought it was a case for the Society. Sophiel's mother was burned to death at the fire that destroyed Seaside two years ago.

HIS SKULL FRACTURED.

Hugo Schueler, a cook, of 45 Hamilton avenue, Brooklyn, is in Bellevue hospital suffering from a supposed fracture of the skull. He was injured while attempting to board a Third Avenue cable-car.

James O'Grady, of 48 West Forty-seventh street, and Frank C. Wiegner, the conductor and gripman of the car, were arrested, and in the Essex Market Police Court today Justice Fetter paroled them for further examination.

BEATEN BY TWO MEN.

Mrs. Tezoo Was Walking Her Husband When Assaulted.

She Is Now in Seney Hospital and May Die of Her Injuries.

Her Assaulters Escaped, but Their Identity Is Known.

Mrs. Teresa Tezoo, of 564 Front street, Brooklyn, is lying at the Seney hospital, suffering from the effects of a brutal beating, as alleged, at the hands of G. Aetano, of 565 Union street, and F. Minillo, of 588 President street.

The woman, who is in a delicate condition, went out for a walk last night with her husband, Angelo. They only gone a short distance when, upon any reason they say, they were upon by the two men. They knocked down, and it is claimed, Mrs. Tezoo was beaten and kicked the couple's assailants ran away. Mrs. Tezoo was badly injured, and she had to be removed to the Seney Hospital.

Taylor examined the woman and found that her life was in danger. The police reached the neighborhood last night, but the men got out of the way, and had not been captured until today. A general alarm has been sent out, and soldiers of the 11th and Brooklyn are now looking for

GAVE ANOTHER'S NAME.

Cappadole Charged with Falsely Representing Himself.

Antonio Cappadole, thirty-two years old, of 342 Third Avenue, Brooklyn, was summoned for examination today, in Yorkville Court, on complaint of Gustavio Friole, of 40 East Seventeenth street.

Last Friday Friole sold a shoe store at 423 Fourth Avenue to Cappadole. Friole charges that about four weeks ago Cappadole went to a housefurnishing store kept by G. Karch, at 55 Deane street, and representing himself as Friole and giving the latter's address, purchased a clock and $3 worth of jewelry. He paid on these a small deposit, promising to pay the balance in installments.

Recently a collector called on Friole for a payment on account of the indebtedness. Friole repudiated the claim and refused to pay.

RAID ON A "RESTAURANT."

Steamship Fireman Says He Lost Money at Poker There.

"Restaurant Marina," at 108 Cherry street, kept by Joseph Archibald, was raided last night by the police of the Oak street station. Eight prisoners, including the proprietor, were taken. Juan Carvalera, a steamship fireman, was the complainant.

He says he lost $2 in the place at poker. Archibald, the proprietor, he alleges, collected 10 cents from each jackpot, or whenever a straight flush or three of a kind was shown down by the players.

Justice Ryan, in Tombs Court today, held Archibald for examination. The seven other prisoners were discharged, and Carvalera was committed, as a witness, to the House of Detention.
